

When I take long trips, I use my satellite radio, and it really helps to be able to learn about traffic and weather in a city I'm approaching. The alternative is to be ignorant of conditions, which is unsafe, or to try to find a local station which just happens to be giving an update when I need it. Please let free enterprise work! It makes no sense to censor what satellite radio can broadcast, especially when it is in the public interest.